MONDAY MORNING, JULY 2, 1860.

AN ASTRONOMER'S VIEW OF THE UNIVERSE. -In waiting ourselves in imagination to our own satellite, the moon -the nearest of our celestial bodies-we have passed over a distance equal to thirty times the diameter of our globe. In advancing to the sun, we travel over a distance equal to thirty times that of the moon; and before we reach Uranus, the remotest of the planets, we have traveled a space equal to twenty times the earth's distance from the sun. Thus placed at the limits of a system enclosed in a circle of eighteen hundred millions of miles in radius, our appreciation of distance would appear to be exhausted, and we seem to be es on the margin of an unfathomable abyss. The telescope, however, and the mural cirnius of man, proud of the achievement- and | until payments in full are made, and deeds at the justly, if humbly proud—has crossed the expense of the purchasers. gulf twelve thousand times the radius of his own system, that we may study the nearest world in the firmament of heaven. Beyond this frontier, lies the whole universe of stars -their binary systems, their clusters, and their nebulous combinations. The observed parallax of one-fourth of a second in a Lyra, carries us four times as far into the bosom of space; though beyond this, as we have no positive measure of distance, it would be as unphilosophical to assign limits to creation, as to give it an infinite range. In this rapid flight into space, we traversed it but in one deep. The house contains 7 rooms, and is in fair dimension, and the line which we have trac- repair. ad is but a unit in the scale of celestial distance. Creation in its wide panorama is still above us, beneath us, and around us.-The over-arching heavens still enclose us, and innumerable worlds sparkle in its can-

If from this bourne, from which the astronomical traveller alone returns, we look upon our course, our own planatary system ceases to be perceived. Its sun is dimitself but an invisible point in the nebplous light that intervenes. Where then is our terrestrial ball; its ocean-its continentsits mountains-its empires-its dynastiesits thrones? where is our fatherland-its factions-its Christians, disunions-and its unitely wars? where is our home-its peace its endearments-its hopes-and its fears? where is man, intellectual monad-the only atom of organic life that can pierce the depths and interpret the enigma of the universe? and yet the only spark of a spiritual nature. which disclaims the authority and resists the will of the universal King? They have all disappeared in the far off perspective-the long vista of space, whose apex, were it a sun, the hugest telescope would fail to descry. No living thing here meets the eye, and no sentiment associated with life presses on the affections. The tiny organisms WINES. of earth and ocean-everything that moves: and breathes-that lives and dies-all are Fairfax. engulphed in the great conception of the Fauquier, universe. The straining mind cannot unite the immeasurable extremes. The infinite in space-the eternal in duration-the omin space—the eternal in duration—the om-nipotent in power—the perfect in wisdom, WE BELIEVE IT WILL BE A FACT AD-mitted by all competitors, upon a fair trial, universe. THE LAST HOURS OF DE QUINCEY .- Mr. J. T. Fields furnishes the Boston Transcript with the following:

" I have learned a few particulars of the last days of the 'opium eater' from those who loved him, and who closed his eyes,-When they sent for the kind physician who attended him through his final illness, he received him with that gracious, winning manner for which he was so remarkable, and briefly expressed the nature of his indisposition. Then he conversed very clearly and eloquently on other topics, and seemed cheerfully resigned. During the next following three or four days he grew better, and those about him were constantly reminded of passages in his published writings, wherein he had written of death. Slight and transient febrile attacks, such as are incidental to persons who have passed the allotted span of human life, recurred at intervals. He read, however, constantly, and always without the aid of spectacles, although his age had already carried him to nearly seventyfive. When he became fatigued with holding the book, one of his daughters read to him; but he always manifested the utmost solicitude lest he should give trouble to those who ministered around his bed. "One of the last volumes he ever looked over was Allibone's Dictionary. The mention of himself in its pages seemed to give him pleasure, and led him to speak of the nigh at hand. Courteous expressions of gratitude constantly fell from his lips to those who waited on him, as he lay feeble in body, but all his fine intellect undimmed. Weeks went on, and he grew weaker .-Shortly before he died be seemed filled with a holy, califf delight, and was often heard speaking to those who had gone before him. Always he had shown through life great interest in little children, and now with extreme fondness he talked of young people he had loved in years gone by. On Wednesday morning, the 7th of December, he blest his eldest daughter, who came to his Then turning to these who stood around, with touching sweetness of tone, he said, 'thank you' and these were his last words

SOLUBLE PHOSPHATED

PERUVIAN GUANO MADE OF GUANOS OF

DIRECT IMPORTATION,

Under the personal supervision and direction of Dr. R. H. ST. BLER, Chemist, of this city.

THIS FERTILIZER

We confidently recommend, as the most permanent and cheapest yet offered to the public. Being composed of

PERUVIAN & SOMBRERO

GUANOS, OF OUR OWN

DIRECT IMPORTATION. FROM THE

Chincha & Sombrero Islands. WE WARRANT IT IN EVERY RESPECT.

THE SOMBRERO GUANO, Before being mixed, is rendered immediately soluble, by the addition of Sulphuric acid. This treatment is universally recommended by the most eminent Agricultural Chem> ists. Without it, the action of the two Guanos when mixed is not simultaneous, and consequently comparatively in> > efficient.

This is the ONLY mixture of the Ammoniated and Phosphatic GUANOS we know of, yet offered to the Agricultural community, in a REALLY SOLUBLE form.

Price $50 per Ton of 2,000 lbs. Our reports from those who applied the above FERTILIZER to their crops last fall, are highly satisfactory-so much so, indeed, as to convince us that our Soluble Phosphated Peruvian Guano will ere long be altogether used in this section, as a substitute for the Peruvian Guano, which, without the addition of Phosphates, tends rather to exhaust than permanently improve the soil.

"A REMARKABLY FINE ALE .- Mr. Davison's successor in the Washington Brewery, corner of K and 27th streets, Mr. Colineau, is now manufacturing XX ale and porter and brown stout, all of which reflect infinite credit on his establishment. His ale compares favorably, indeed, with the best Philadelphia and Albany ales, being, according to our taste, much more like the best English and Scotch ales than those imported from either of those cities. If he continues to produce so superior an article, he will shortly make a reputation for his brewery surpassing that of any Northern establishment.
